

Carmo Towers

A benchmark building in a privileged location

An indisputable reference in the city of Luanda, the Carmo Towers project was designed to accommodate the head office of BP Angola. It is comprised by two 25-story towers; one, accommodating the whole administrative structure of the oil company, and the other, a residential setting with a total of 832 apartments.

Right in the middle of the financial, business and leisure hub of Luanda, the property holds meeting, training and video-conference rooms, a gymnasium, a medical center, a floor for technological exhibits and a parking area with 142 parking spaces.

The project and the building management was carried out by Engexpor, according to quality, safety and building international standards.
