

Metropolis (NOS head office building)

Prominent and remarkable image

In the Campo Grande area, close to '2ª Circular', the NOS head office building lets no one indifferent. Designed and built to accommodate the telecommunications company, it is one of the most remarkable prime office buildings of Lisbon, standing out for its geometrical architecture and centralized location, right nest to the inter-modal platform of public transports in Campo Grande.

This modern building is comprised by tow independent bodies connected from the 3rd floor by a metallic structure, organized in a linear fashion with a glass facade overlooking a garden area.

The superb architectural and building quality, embedded with the highest office technology and rational design allow for the accommodation of the NOS company in an efficient and sustainable manner, with energetic consumption savings.

Engineered by CPU - Urbanistas e Arquitetos and TT Design - with the project and building work management in charge of Engexpor - the property also enjoys the particularity of revitalizing the entire area where the former Sporting stadium was located, adding value to its urban surroundings and public spaces.
