

Montevideo

Exclusive residential project in the noblest area of Porto

Montevideo's 156th Avenue mansion, located on the first line of the sea in Foz do Douro, Porto, is being rehabilitated and will be the new home for a luxury residential project, together with the construction of two apartment buildings.

The project of conversion of the palace, classified as a historical heritage, will preserve the original facade while retaining the charm of the classic style. The interior will be adapted to the conditions of comfort and modernity that the luxury standards of your apartments demand, where the main attributes are the large areas, private garden and swimming pool.

The two new apartment blocks will have four and five floors above ground and will have large balconies. The outdoor spaces are another strength of this exclusive project, where the natural surroundings and the sea view are valued by the large green area of the garden with protected species.

Engexpor is doing project management and construction management of this Project.
